BISHOP ESTATE MAY ERECT LARGE BLOCK

It is reported as probable that the Bishop estate will erect a seven-story building, 110 by 100 feet in ground dimensions, on the land opposite the Young Hotel, a structure which it will rival in architecture. E. O. Hall & Son, whose building is undergoing condemnation for the Federal building in the projected block. It is said the Commercial Club also has an eye on quarters in the same building.

FULL MILITARY HONORS FOR LATE MAJOR WHOLLEY

The body of the late Major John H. Wholley, who died at his post of duty at Fort Shafter October 12 last, will be taken aboard the army transport Thomas this afternoon, with full military honors. Escorted by the battalion of the Second Infantry which he commanded at the time of his death, and to the music of that regiment's band, the casket mounted on an artillery caisson, will be borne from Williams' undertaking establishment to the transport, for transportation to Washington, where the remains will be interred at Arlington cemetery, in a plot which Major Wholley himself selected, while attending the Army War College a little over a year ago.

The same solemn military ceremony that marked the conveying of Major Wholley's remains from Fort Shafter to this city, will be in evidence today. The casket will rest on an artillery caisson, fully horsed and equipped. The dead officer's charger, in mourning caparison, will be led behind the casket, the bride black-hooded, and the boots suspended from the saddle, spurs to the front.

Provided that the Thomas arrives before 1:30 the funeral cortege will start at 2:30. The band of the Second Infantry came in from Schofield Barracks on the noon train, and will return this evening.

The honorary pall-bearers follow the caisson are General M. M. Macomb, Colonel French, Lieut. Col. Campbell, Major Cheatham, Major Kennedy, Major Timberlake, Major McClure, and Captain Harris.

RICE INSTITUTE RICHLY ENDOWED

Few institutions of learning have begun their existence under such auspicious circumstances as the William M. Rice Institute, which opened its doors this fall at Houston, Tex., with an original fund of $10,000,000 for endowment and maintenance; with the foremost educators in the nation aiding in planning its future; with picketed men for administrative offices and faculty; and with a vigorous, growing country in which to prosper and wield its influence. It is small wonder that the opening of this institution should be attended by noted educators from all over the world, as well as official government representatives.

Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, deputized as special representative of the bureau at the ceremonies Dr. Kendrick C. Babcock, specialist in higher education. Rice Institute was first proposed by the munificence of William Marsh Rice, a native of Massachusetts, but for many years a resident of Houston.

Before his death in 1900, Mr. Rice made far-reaching plans for the establishment of a nonpolitical and non-sectarian institution to be dedicated to the advancement of letters, science, and art. During the long period of litigation that followed Mr. Rice's death, the trustees called Dr. Edgar Odell Lovett, a professor in Princeton university, a man of wide experience and lofty aims, to aid them as president in realizing the founder's aspirations. President Lovett was instructed to learn all he could about other institutions of higher learning before beginning his own. He traveled all over the world in the interest of the new enterprise, visited the leading educational and scientific establishments, and returned in the summer of 1909 from a year's journey of study that extended from England to Japan. Meanwhile the trustees had secured 300 acres of land on the extension of Houston's main thoroughfare as a site for the institute, and engaged experts to begin upon a comprehensive architectural plan that would embody in succeeding years the purposes of the institute. This fall building operations had progressed so far that it was deemed advisable to hold formal dedication exercises and to open the institution to students.

FACULTY AND STUDENTS NAME THEIR CHOICE

Mill's School held a small-sized election of its own this morning, on the issues of the day. To be more correct there were two elections, one by the faculty of the school and the other by the students.

The result of the one held by the faculty was: Taft 1; Chafin 1; Wilson 6; Roosevelt 11.

The student's election brought out returns as follows: Taft 25; Roosevelt 95; Wilson 28; Chafin 1.

The election was held directly after chapel, and was quite exciting while it lasted.

"No," said Mr. Cumrox, "I don't in the least disapprove of my daughter marrying a title." "But you seem dissatisfied." "I am. What I object to is the fellow that goes with it."
